FRANCE IS PROUD OF ITS EXCELLENCY IN CONSTRUCTION OF SUBMARINES----------France and Australia has signed a historic contract worth €35 Billion for the construction of 12 submarines in partnership. Jean Marc Ayrault congratulates the oceanic submarine program by DCNS. Australia chose France and DCNS as partners for the construction of 12 submarines in a historic partnership. It marks a decisive step in the strategic partnership between the two countries, which will cooperate for 50 years on the major element of sovereignty that represents the submarine capability.
On April 26, the Australian prime minister Malcolm Turnbull chose the offer of French group DCNS to build 12 new submarines, a program of 35 billion euros over fifty years.----------
“I congratulate all those who participated in the preparation of the French proposal in response to the call for tenders Australia for its important oceanic submarine program. In the Industrial sector, especially DCNS, and state services were mobilized in an exemplary manner to promote the French offer. It is a new illustration of the ability of our country to persuade and win in the most technologically advanced sectors.----------
For France and Australia, cooperation on 50 years opens a new page of our strategic relations, which are already exceptional quality and rooted in the long term. Our close in terms of values, strategic and global interests, and geographically, through the neighborhood of our Pacific territories, are further strengthened by this new joint project in the field of defense.“ French Minster of Foreign Affairs , Jean Marc Ayrault, said----------
"In this program, there are four major players: the Australian government for the DCNS submarine, Raytheon or Lockheed Martin as the next choice from the Australian government for the combat system and the ASC Shipyard in Adelaide, where will be built 12 submarines. It is now a matter of write it contractually, and how each part will share the activities and responsibilities, to work together, "says Marie-Pierre Bailliencourt, Deputy Director of DCNS. According to "Les Echos".
